Activity:

We have imagined how it would be one day in Andhra Pradesh.

In a family, we suppose that the mother works in a factory (120 rupees) then the father works as a public administrative (20.000 rupees)

So they earn 20.120 rupees every month.

They live in an apartment that costs 4.000 rupees. So, when they have paid the apartment, they've got 16.120 rupees, it means that they can spend 537 rupees every day.

For a family of 4 persons you need 1 L of milk (30 rupees) half kg of flour (10 rupees), 1/4 L of oil (30rupees) 1kg of lentils (70 rupees) and 1kg of rice(25 rupees), and they need to buy vegetables, and also fish or meat, so we suppose that they spend 200 rupees more.

The amount of money they spend in one day, only for food is 365 rupees aprox.

After buying the food from the 537 rupees they had, now they only have 172 rupees. At the end of the month they have 5160 rupees, and with that money they have to buy clothes, they have to pay their transport, they have to buy soap, pay medicines...

Here in Spain, a similar family would earn 2500 euros aprox.(210.000rupees).

They would spend 1000 euros (84.000 rupees) in the apartment every month, so they have 1500 euros (126.000 rupees) for food, medicines, and so on.

For food they would spend 500 euros(42.000 rupees) more or less. After that they would have 1000euros (84.000 rupees) for the rest of things they need to buy.

(We have made a food table of a normal menu for a child in one day)
